

WIN A TRIP TO THE WORLD'S LARGEST
CASINO IN MACAU

ANANOVA™

Search the web

search

Home

News

Entertainment

Sport

Business

Video Reports

News

Quirky

Quirky gaffes

Strange crime

Sex life

Animal tales

Sporting quirks

Showbiz quirks

Heartwarmers

Rocky relationships

Bad taste

Top headlines

Latest picture stories

Science and discovery

Corrections

Ananova:

Photographer criticised

A photographer has come under fire in China for his pictures of a man falling off a bicycle.

The man came a spectacular cropper in Xiamen city after his bike hit a pot-hole submerged in rainwater.

But photographer Liu Tao was accused of lying in wait to take his pictures instead of warning people of the danger.

Readers of the Beijing Youth Daily, which published the shots, wrote in to express their feelings.

One wrote: "The pictures are well shot, but the person who shot this is disgusting. He knew there was a pit, but was waiting there for someone to fall over."

And another said: "The photographer should really be condemned since he knew there definitely would be other victims."

Liu defended himself, saying: "I just knew that the city government has paved the pit, and without my pictures, the pit would not be noticed by the government, and there would perhaps be more people falling over."

Home - News - Entertainment - Sport - Business

Copyright © 2007 Ananova Ltd

Terms and conditions of use - Privacy policy - Corrections - Contact Ananova - About Ananova

GET A PIECE OF THE ACTION

£3.99

ONLINE DVD
RENTALS FROM
£3.99
PER MONTH

LOVEFILM.COM